What is e-liquid?

The liquid that you vaporize with an e-cigarette is called e-liquid. This liquid mainly consists of two substances: Propylene Glycol (PG) and Vegetable Glycerin (VG). There are also some flavorings and possible nicotine. The mentioned substances PG and VG may not sound familiar to you yet. However, most people have been in constant contact with these liquids all their lives. They are in all kinds of household products: from care products such as shampoo and make-up, to even food. Heating these substances produces a warm, smoke-like vapour, which is inhaled and then exhaled.

Explanation PG/VG

PG and VG are the base liquids in the e-liquid. The binding substance that ensures that visible smoke is released and that you have the feeling that you are smoking. There are no health benefits to choosing PG or VG. The preference for one of the two substances differs per user. In general, a combination of both liquids is chosen in every e-liquid. That is why it is important to know what these liquids do so that you can make a better choice for the right liquid for your e-cigarette.

Which liquid do I need?

There is a handy trick to know exactly which liquid you need:

- Is the Ohm value of the coil 1.0 or higher
- 50 PG or higher.

- Is the Ohm value of the coil 1.0 or lower
- 50 PG or lower
