

Controlling the Output Power

In the  Manual program, both outputs can be adjusted independently or in conjunction, using four sliders in the menu. The  Grow and  Bloom programs greatly simplify this by predefining the B:R ratio (not user configurable) and hiding the sliders in the menu, leaving only one control for the user. It's recommended to start with one of these ( ) and move on to  Manual once you are more familiar with the features and capabilities.

On the Status Screen, the   buttons adjust the output slider.