Architecture influences the way we live and the way we live influences architecture. Architecture Is a Social Act by Lorcan O’Herlihy Architects explores these two ideas at the core of LOHA’s work and shows how one informs the other. The book features 28 projects from across two decades and two continents, ranging in scope from housing projects and commercial complexes to cultural landmarks and master-planned communities. Each project demonstrates how the firm responds to the political, economic, and environmental forces that are shaping today’s cities by crafting architecture that offers a sense of place and belonging in a rapidly changing world.

FEATURES
• A collection of 28 projects completed over 20 years gives readers thorough insight – both visually and conceptually – into the work of LA and Detroit-based firm Lorcan O’Herlihy Architects.
• Written by the award-winning firm, the book features contributions by architecture critic and curator Greg Goldin and journalist, author, and radio host Frances Anderton.
• The book’s main goal is to spark creative ideas and important questions about how architecture can be used in political engagement, smart growth and social structures, in order to improve our urban landscapes and elevate the human condition.
• Contains inspirational materials, including conversations with clients, residents and colleagues, letters, sketches, excerpts from O’Herlihy’s older essays and writings, and images of how projects have been activated by the public.
The age of social media has brought a new type of space into the world of fashion retail. When architecture and fashion meet in the creation of ephemeral spaces for the immediate presentation of new collections, for example, these temporary events are brought into the realm of the everlasting digital space as they are shared and re-shared on platforms like Instagram. Fashion spaces can best be defined, then, as a co-created, ever changing and prevailing meta-space where the dialogue amongst designers, consumers and industry leaders continues well after the real space has vanished.

Can these fashion spaces have a bigger impact on consumers than real-time experience of space? How do the dialogues developing within and as result of fashion spaces influence physical retail design? How can designers use fashion spaces as sites for new cultural production? These are but some of the questions tackled by Fashion Spaces, A Theoretical View. The book is created via a practice-oriented approach to academic teaching and research, through the collaboration of academics, students and the retail industry.

FEATURES
- This book explores and defines fashion spaces as an emerging area of research within retail design.
- It is created via a practice-oriented approach to academic teaching and research, through the collaboration of academics, students and the retail industry.
- Explores the commercialisation of fashion spaces as a new typology of retail design and puts forward valuable outcomes and actionable insights.
- Edgy and distinctive graphic design that is easy to navigate.
Departing from Frame’s successful The Other Office series, Where We Work explores the many different iterations of today’s workplace through an in-depth look at 50+ best-in-class projects worldwide. From co-working spaces and corporate offices to work cafés and transit places, and everything in between, a curated selection of projects will highlight today’s varied and bold interpretations of the workplace.

These case studies will be introduced by essays reflecting on how designers are responding to changes in the lifestyles and work habits of today’s workforce and in turn how design can help transform them. The book will be punctuated by interviews with industry leaders who will help bring to the forefront key examples of how companies are using architecture and design to implement business strategy and achieve results.

FEATURES

- This 320-page reference book is filled with around 50 pioneering workspace designs.
- The book explores the various iterations of the contemporary workspace, from co-works and corporate offices to work cafés and transit spaces, and everything in between.
- Successor to the highly successful series The Other Office.
- Projects are accompanied by a detailed description of the design concept, sketches, and stunning photography on four to eight-page features.
As e-commerce uproots the norms and conventions of physical retail, Chinese retailers are showing the way forward. What can designers, architects and industry leaders learn from this innovation melting pot? Departing from Frame’s successful Powershop series, Learning From China showcases 50+ retail designs developed by a troupe of national and international designers in China. From in-store maker studios and themed pop-ups to multifunctional spaces and phygital retail, a deep dive into a curated selection of case studies provides a window into the future of the industry.

Projects will be introduced by in-depth essays highlighting the panorama of the industry in China over the last five years, discussing how it is impacting retail around the world, and contemplating what it all means for the future of the brick-and-mortar store.

FEATURES
• This 320-page reference book is filled with around 50 pioneering retail designs in China.
• The book explores the in-store maker studios, themed pop-ups, multifunctional spaces and phygital retail that are setting the scene in the Chinese retail.
• Successor to the highly successful series Powershop.
• Featured projects are accompanied by descriptive text, stunning photography, drawings and sketches, and designer profiles in four to eight-page features.

A survey of retail in China provides an illuminating window into the future of the industry.
‘Architects do not actually build buildings,’ says Mikkel Frost, co-founder of Danish architecture firm CEBRA. ‘What we build is an idea. To visualize it, we build drawings.’

Over 200 drawings are organised into 20 sections, each relating to one of CEBRA’s projects. An index containing colour photographs and renders of their works further illuminates how the drawings are translated into reality.

Introducing the book, a written version of Frost’s TEDx talk Let your fingers do the talking! elaborates on the book’s impetus: to bring a spotlight to the craft of drawing as a powerful tool for creation and communication.

FEATURES
- A curated selection of 200+ sketches and watercolours by Danish architect Mikkel Frost is organised into 20 sections, each referring to one of the projects by internationally recognized architecture firm CEBRA.
- In a compact and handy format, the book champions drawing as a powerful and important communication tool for everyone.
Tokyo-based design firm MOMENT, run by Hisaaki Hirawata and Tomohiro Watabe, creates rich and sleek commercial environments for a wide spectrum of brands, having attracted many celebrated clients. This book highlights the duo's versatile and skilful visual approach, detail-oriented spatial branding and alluring lighting design for interior solutions that are both functionally and emotionally driven. Illustrated by a large selection of beautiful photography, project features are accompanied by informative texts that delve into the design concepts, as well as the studio's tactics to help clients succeed by redefining brand experiences.

FEATURES
- Complete features of 28 retail design projects realized by Tokyo-based design firm MOMENT for clients such as Iseey Miyake, Starbucks and Patagonia.
- Informative texts accompany each project’s feature, delving into design concept, as well as the studio’s strategic approach in a ferociously competitive industry.

After decades of stagnation, food retail is currently one of most creative fields for designers, architects and other professionals developing new formats like bio food markets, ‘to go’ outlets and pop ups.

This handbook prescribes hybridization – a fusion of supermarket and gastronomy, co-working, hospitality or performative formats – as a powerful remedy against the digital disruption. As a result of a 3-year research with 60 students of retail design at PBSA Dusseldorf and for the first time in this field, Hybrid Food Retail offers an overview of the history, an encyclopaedic analysis of the elements and highlights the emerging trends in the food retail industry.

FEATURES
- Written by a leading professor in the field from the Peter Behrens School of Arts, University of Applied Sciences Düsseldorf, the book covers retail marketing, communications and design in the development of a new approach to food retail design.
- It offers an overview of the history of the food retail industry, an encyclopaedic analysis of its elements and highlights its emerging trends.
THE THEATRE OF WORK
Clive Wilkinson

In defining the landscape of the modern work-space, The Theatre of Work examines global developments in workplace thinking, historical antecedents, the performance touch-points for the new office, and proposes seven humanistic principles that will inform a holistic design process that can bring this concept of ‘theatre’ to fruition.

FUTURE FOOD TODAY
A Cookbook by SPACE10

Future Food Today is a collection of recipes based on future food trends, coming straight out of the SPACE10, IKEA’s future living lab. The book expresses SPACE10’s beliefs around food and food production, offering an alternative to the planet’s growing demand for food and excessive consumption of meat.

FLOAT! Building on Water to Combat Urban Congestion and Climate Change

Float! proposes a new way of building: on water instead of on land. The majority of world cities are situated on the water and have too little space where it’s most needed: in the city centre. Building on water allows inner-city areas to expand.
