

Synthetic portholes? Yes please!

You often see metal portholes actually fitted in areas where there is a natural tendency for condensation to form, such as the sleeping areas, the galley or wet room. These are regularly very damp. With the synthetic portholes of TOPwindows that problem is solved once and for all, as these are absolutely condensation free.

Our portholes are also competitively priced. What's more, they are UV and seawater resistant, scratch resistant and meet the applicable ISO norms and CE requirements. The exterior is available in every colour and the size of the portholes is 375 x 175 x R55 mm. The frames of moulded synthetic material have extra insulation and are fitted with PMMA plexiglass.

The portholes are available in both fixed and hinged variants, single or double glazed. There is also the option of an insect screen and/or rain canopy. Handy: the insect covers can remain in place when in a closed position.

Installation is very simple. The portholes are fully compatible with the traditional portholes. They therefore always fit!

We deliver TOPquality for a competitive price. Guaranteed.

Advantages of our portholes:

- ✓ Scratch resistant
- ✓ Condensation free
- ✓ Extra insulation
- ✓ UV and seawater resistant
- ✓ In accordance with ISO norms and CE requirements
- ✓ The exterior is available in every colour
- ✓ Fully compatible with older portholes
- ✓ More competitively priced than regular portholes

“ Only advantages. Our boat used to have the familiar aluminium portholes, and these turned out to be a real water trap! Particularly in the autumn and spring we had considerable problems with moisture. With the portholes of TOPwindows there are only advantages: there's not a single drop of water on them, and we can have double glazing and choose from various colours. The clamp system is also much handier than those irritating rotary knobs. Now there are four clamps, which you can loosen very simply and which allows the insect screens to remain in place. ”

Enjoy condensation-free windows for many years to come.

Deserved praise for service! Five years ago, I bought new window frames with double glazing from TOPwindows. A major reason was to avoid condensation forming on the frames. And what a difference! And the service! It's simply fantastic. I only had to phone and they came straightaway. I only have praise for the men and women of TOPwindows!
